MGM Takes Proactive Company-Wide Approach in Anti-Human Trafficking

Stepping up to Tackle Modern Slavery in the Region

[September 26, 2017, Macau] As the pioneer in the Macau private sector on promoting anti-human trafficking, MGM participated in two recent initiatives including: The “2017 Anti-Slavery Summit” hosted by Thomson Reuters in Hong Kong, and today invited Mekong Club, a non-profit organization combating human trafficking, to deliver a keynote speech on the subject for more than 100 management members. Through these initiatives, the Company supports the protection of human rights and raises awareness on anti-trafficking both locally and regionally.

MGM invited Mr. Matthew Friedman, Chief Executive Officer of Mekong Club, to give a keynote speech for its management team today, enabling them to gain in-depth insights into the recent major initiatives of anti-human trafficking underway in the hospitality industry and to drive prevention and awareness in their teams. It covered topics such as the modern slavery act, financial aspects of modern slavery, responsible procurement and supply chain management. “Over the past three years, MGM has continued to play a leadership role in creating awareness related to this important issue. This type of guidance is inspiring other hotels and businesses to step up and join the fight against modern slavery.” said Mr. Matthew Friedman.

To review the current landscape of anti-human trafficking in Asia with its challenges and opportunities, Mr. Grant Bowie, Chief Executive Officer and Executive Director of MGM China Holdings Limited, recently participated in the “2017 Anti-Slavery Summit” organized by Thomson Reuters, the world’s leading source of news and information for professional markets, in Hong Kong. The day-long summit, with focus on technology, data and regulatory solutions for businesses to tackle modern-day slavery and human-trafficking, brought together influential business leaders, corporate CEOs, human rights advocates, non-governmental organizations, government and the legal community at large, to discuss major regional issues concerning slavery.

As one of the speakers in the session of “Breaking the Chain – Supply Chain Risks and Response Models,” Mr. Grant Bowie shared perspectives on how the hospitality sector can help prevent and combat human trafficking throughout supply chains. “For the 40 million victims of modern slavery all over the world, we believe this is a critical issue for us to engage in and make a difference. We have developed our own Vendor Code of Conduct, with provisions related to supplier workplace standards in an effort to eliminate child labor, forced labor, human trafficking or any other violation of human rights. We will continue our efforts in bringing this issue to broader attention, and to collaborate and partner with organizations with the same vision for greater impact.”
